OFFICIAL STATEMENT

ATLANTA – State Road and Tollway Authority Executive Director Christopher Tomlinson, at the request of Gov. Nathan Deal, announced today that the practice of “pay-it-forward” toll payments will be reinstated at the GA 400 Toll Plaza.

“With only a few months left until the tolls are removed from GA 400, Governor Deal felt it was important that we look at the toll payment policy to see if there might be a way to reinstate this long-held tradition of courtesy payments,” Tomlinson said. “Working with staff, we have devised a workaround that protects cashiers from erroneous complaints, while allowing customers to pay tolls for their fellow motorists, confident that other drivers will benefit from their generosity.”

The policy allowing drivers to “pay it forward” will remain in effect until the scheduled ending of tolls on GA 400 the week before Thanksgiving, said Tomlinson.
